U.S. Peace Government's peace plan for Washington

A new $6 million, 12,000 sq. ft. Peace Palace in the District

Several groups of 100-200 peace-creating experts to bring relief to the stressed city and neutralize destructive tendencies of government

“The new Peace Palace in Washington will do what the endless rancor and divisive politics of the White House and Congress cannot do:

Promote harmony in America and peace in the world.”

—John Hagelin, founder of the U.S. Peace Government

(Peace Palaces have already opened in Bethesda, Maryland; Lexington, Kentucky; and Fairfield, Iowa)
